The belief in diplomatic circles is that the Anglo-German agreement is purely a mutual guarantee against either country setzing the Yangtse Kiang valley. Germany, even if not in an economic crisis, is at least in serious embarrassments owing to considerable overproduction brought about by the enormous industrial machinery which she has created at a great cost. She, therefore seeking commercial outlets, cast erefore, seeking commercial outlets, cast therefore, seeking commercial outlets, cast her eyes on China, and especially on the Yangtse Kiang valley, and fearing England might attempt to seize the Yangtse Kiang valley she signed the published agreement. GREAT INCREASE IN THE SHIP-

There has been prepared in the division of customs and insular affairs of the War Department a general statement showing the commerce of the Philippine Islands for the first nine months of the fiscal year ending June 30, 1900.

The statement shows that during the period named the islands imported merchandise, gold and silver to the value of $16,751,800, or a monthly average of $1,861,-313. Average monthly from China, including Hong Kong, $820,377; from United Kingdom, $316,076; from Spain, $181,416; from Germany, $104,041; from France, $36,- 419, and from Japan, $15,838. The imports from the United States during the first month of the period named amounted in value to $27,979. The average per month from August 1, 1899, to March 31, 1900, was $131,528, showing an increase of imports from the United States during the period named of 370 per cent, placing this country fourth among the countries sending merchandise to the Phil-ippines. The statement shows a marked decrease in imports from China, including Hong Kong. In July, 1889, they amounted in value to $994,403, while in March, 1990, they had fallen to $659,398, and in February, 1900, the total imports from that counary, 1889, the total imports from that country were valued at only $346,531. A similar decrease is noted in the imports from Spain, falling from $189,910 in July, 1899, to $68,756 in February, 1990. The imports for March, 1900, amounted in value to $127,343.

Exports From the Philippines. The statement also shows that the exports from the Philippine Islands to other countries for the period named were $14.-634,336, or a monthly average of $1,626,026. Monthly average exports to the United Kingdom, $542,030; to China, including Hong Kong, $413,635; to Spain, $104,452; to Japan, $101,578; to France, $43,076, and to Germany, $6,918.

The exports to the United States during the first month of the period named amounted in value to $181,363. The average per month from August 1, 1889, to March 31, 1900, was $334,274, showing an increase of $4.5, which places the United States third among the countries taking the products of the Philippines. The exportation of hemp (mantia) during the period named amounted in value to $8,106,340, or a monthly average of $900,705. Monthly average exported to the United Kingdom was $440,484; to China, including Hong Kong, $124,294; to Australia, $29,758; to the British East Indies, $16,392; to Spain, $6,615, and to Japan, $7,947. The exportation of hemp to the United States during the first month of the period named amounted in value to $176,953. The average per month from Australia. 1900, was $334,274, showing an increas

$176,953. The average per month from August 1, 1889, to March 31, 1999, was $287,497, showing an increase of 62.5, placing the United States second on the list of coun-Thited States second on the list of countries taking this article.

Other exportations of leading articles during the period named were as follows: Raw sugar to the value of $1,815,148, or a monthly average of $201,683; tobacco and manufactures of to the value of $1,522,971, or a monthly average of $169,119; copra to the value of $607,005, or a monthly average of $17,445.

Breadstuffs were imported to the value of $531.858. Of this amount $50,116 worth came from the United States. Small Share of Cotton Trade.

The total importation of cotton and manufactures of cotton during the period named was $4,015,049, or a monthly average of $446,116. The share of the United States in this immense trade amounted to only

It would appear from an analysis of the above statement that an unusual opportunity exists for our cotton growers, merchants and manufacturers of cotton goods to compete with other countries for a greater volume of this trade.

ANTI-SALOON REVIVAL.

ddresses Illustrated by Stereopticon Views-Meeting at Hamline Church.

The Anti-Saloon League of the District of Columbia was organized June 23, 1893. It invites to membership representatives of all temperance organizations, all churches and all Christian societies by whatever name they are called. At the present time the enrollment of affiliated bodies is as follows: Church societies, 70; temperance societies, 31; miscellaneous societies, 14.

Meetings in promotion of the annual rally of the league are being held at Hamline Church, corner of 9th and P streets. A large audience gathered there last evening. The choir rendered several appropriate selections, after which Mr. W. H. H. Smith introduced Rev. J. Fred Heisse, pastor of Wesley Chapel, who led the devotional exercises. Miss Frances Helen Groissart sang a solo, being accompanied by Mr. Percy S. Foster. Miss Groissart is probably no more than eight or ten years of age, and has a voice of remarkable sweetness and Her performance was enthusias tically received.

The speaker of the evening was Rev. E.
L. Watson, pastor of Grace Methodist Church. In front of the pulpit was a large screen, upon which were shown pictures illustrating the condition of Washington today from a temperance standpoint. The speaker dwelt upon the downward course of the drunkard, illustrating his theme with pictures of gilded saloons, catchy advertisements and sorry specimens of tippling humanity. A number of contrasting views were shown. There were pictures of distilleries, of a palace occupied by a brewer offset by the hovel of a common drunkard. Mr. Watson said he would like to have the privilege of showing a letter to the Commissioners with the signatures of six members of Congress in behalf of liquor selling. His remarks were directed against the li-

A very interesting trio of scenes showed a raid upon a speak-easy. This, it was said, was conducted in part by a woman, who, upon returning from church on a certain Sunday, was arrested. Views showing the crowd in attendance and the arrest were given. A fine of $300 in this case was imposed and paid, it was declared. Pictures of the jail, workhouse, poorhouse, potter's posed and paid, it was deciared. Fictures of the jail, workhouse, poorhouse, potter's field, Police Court and city hall were shown. Seventy inmates of the workhouse are we men, the speaker said. He also stated that in the potter's field two adults are buried in every grave, and that many intemperate men are buried there. Mr. Watson expressed the hope that the time would come when these unfortunates might have the as hot beds of evil at Chesapeake Junction, Cabin John, Rosslyn and Jackson City.

"Remedial Agencies Employed" was the subject of the latter part of the evening's talk. The last picture shown was the famous painting of Perry at the battle of Lake Erie.

After the singing of a hymn the benediction was pronounced by Mr. Wilson, pastor of Western Presbyterian Church.

The Force Inadequate.

The judge advocate general's department is now composed of eight officers, a force, in the opinion of Gen. Lieber, entirely insufficient to meet existing requirements. Under the law reorganizing the department the Secretary of War is authorized to supplement this regular force with acting judge advocates of departments, detailed from officers of the line. Gen. Lieber says that that arrangement has proved to be a very good one, and the officers so detailed have done their work well. ed to be a very good one, and the officers so detailed have done their work well, but he is decidedly of the opinion that a larger proportion of officers employed on that work should belong to the regular judge advocate general's department. If the present corps were doubled it would still be necessary, he says, to resort to the detail of line officers. While not advocating the sbandonment of the present pracdetail of line officers. While not advocating the sbandonment of the present practice, he expresses the opinion that the number of detailed officers should not so greatly exceed the number of officers of the department as is the department as is now made necessary by the demands of the service.

Legislation Recommended. In closing his report Gen. Lieber recommends the passage of a bill drafted by him "to prevent the failure of military justice," which was favorably reported to the House of Representatives at the first session of the Fifty-sixth Congress, but failed of enactment. The first section of that bill prescribes a penalty for civillans who refuse to appear as witnesses before a general court-martial of the army, when properly summoned. DEMOCRATIC BARBECUE ON THE OLD FAIR GROUNDS.

Senator Martin, Representative Rixey and Others Deliver Addresses-General and Personal News,

Evening Star Bureau, No. 701 King st.. Bell Telephone No. 106, ALEXANDRIA, Va., October 24, 1900. The headquarters of the Bryan, Steven son and Rixey Campaign Club and the democratic city committee at Sarepta Hall, on King street, presented a busy scene this morning. City democrats and visitors from towns in the surrounding counties and also from Washington gathered there in large numbers, before repairing to the old fair grounds at the head of King street, where an ox had been prepared to constitute the principal dish at the big open-air dinner held about 1 o'clock. At noon Haley's band of Washington opened up with music in front of the headquarters, and in a very brief time a large crowd congregated. After dispensing the strains of popular airs for awhile the band headed a procession up King street, which marched about according to the program mentioned in The Star vesterday, except that the Alexandria Light

Infantry did not participate. At the grounds the beef was being made ready for the feasting. The crowd which surged in almost filled the inclosure. The feasting took place after little delay. The process of satisfying the inner man lasted for quite a while and at a late hour the speaking commenced. On the platform, which had been erected on elevated ground, were seated Senator Martin, Representative Rixey, Judge James B. McCabe, Mr. C. C. Carlin, Mr. Samuel G. Brent and others. Mr. Brent presented the speakers. Ad-dresses were delivered by Senator Martin. Representative Rixey, Judge McCabe and local leaders. Political issues were discussed and the usual points in the democratic party policy elaborated. Mr. Bryan's success in the November election was pre-

City Council Meeting.

Several matters relating to streets were disposed of at the semi-monthly meeting of the city council last evening. In the lower body Mr. Hubert Snowden presided. A resolution was offered by Mr. Burke, chairman of the committee on streets, for the appropriation of $233, or as much thereof as might be necessary, for completing work on the Washington street sewer, which was the Washington street sewer, which was adopted. Work previously done on this sewer was severely criticised, some of the members declaring that there had been a complete waste of the amount appropriated. A proposition from Messrs. Burke and Leadbeater to allow the city the use of their sewers, provided the city lay new curbing in front of their premises, was acted upon adversely. A petition was read from several members of the third ward asking that something be done to improve the condition of low grounds in the vicinity of west Oronoco and Pendleton streets. It was stated in the petition that there were marshy grounds in this section which proved detrimental to the health of the citizens residing nearby. The matter was referred to the committees on streets and finance. A petition was read from Messrs. finance. A petition was read from Messrs. Gardner L. Boothe and A. D. Brockett re-Gardner L.
